ABOUT BRENTWOOD

Brentwood, CA is located 55 miles east of San Francisco in the Eastern Contra Costa region. The City of Brentwood has a long and storied history of agriculture and farming production and has since benefited from the East Bay's substantial economic expansion since the great depression. As a result, retail occupancy levels have remained high, and vacancy rates in Brentwood and the rest of the East bay are among the lowest in the county in comparison to other major markets. Brentwood has experienced immense residential growth over the last several years with no signs of stopping. The City offers unique agri-tourism experiences during the late spring and summer months, attracting people from all over the Bay Area.
